Help Improve Transportation in Corvallis

THE TRANSPORTATION SYSTEM PLAN & TRANSIT DEVELOPMENT PLAN

Traveling to school, work and activities is an essential part of every day — whether it's on foot, in a wheelchair, in a car, on a bike, skateboard, or riding the bus. Getting people where they need to go safely and efficiently is a top priority for the City of Corvallis.

In order to plan for our community's needs as we grow, the City is updating the Transportation System Plan (TSP). The new TSP will guide City transportation projects and programs over the next 20 years. Additionally, a new Transit Development Plan will guide expansion and improvements to the Corvallis Transit System.

PROJECT UPDATE

Last fall, the project hosted an open house to talk to the community about current transportation needs and collect ideas on improving travel around Corvallis. Since then, the project team has developed proposed transportation solutions for driving, biking and walking. These solutions were scored based on how they ranked against the project's evaluation criteria, which reflect community values. Visit the website homepage to review the evaluation results. You can also learn about driving, biking and walking solutions (Tech Memo 17) and long-term transit vision and proposed transit solutions (Tech Memo 18).

The City is now determining its top priority projects. Public input and cost will be considered along with the evaluation results. Join us at the open house on January 24 to talk about whether the scoring results reflect community priorities.
